

Processed AI Transcription

Background, Present Living Situation, Significant Events, and Contingency Plan

A short narrative of the person's background

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing challenges with everyday tasks and self-care. They used to manage well independently but are now finding it difficult to keep up with household chores, mobility around the house, meal preparation, personal grooming, and bedtime routines. They are realizing the need for additional support to manage these tasks effectively and maintain their independence. The person acknowledges the changes they are facing and expresses a willingness to seek help when necessary while striving to stay on top of things as best as they can.

Current living situation etc

Based on the text provided, the individual seems to be experiencing challenges with managing everyday tasks in their current living situation. They are finding it difficult to keep up with household chores, such as laundry and yard work, as well as daily activities like cooking meals and taking care of personal grooming. Their struggles also extend to settling in at night and managing health-related tasks like medications. While they are typically independent, they are realizing the need for support and assistance with tasks that are becoming overwhelming.

Communication

Ability to express core needs Verbal or Non-Verbal

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing challenges related to expressing their core needs, both verbally and non-verbally. They are struggling with managing tasks around the house, personal care, meal preparation, and even taking care of themselves. Despite being independent, they are starting to realize the need for support in handling the overwhelming tasks that have become more difficult for them to manage alone.

Can read/write?

No information found.

Can use a phone?

No information found.

Receptive / Expressive skills?

The text provided does not contain information related to Receptive/Expressive skills.

Sensory and Speech difficulties

Blind or nearly blind

No information found.

Deaf or nearly deaf

No information found.

Hearing impaired

No information found.

Speech impaired

No information found.

Vision impaired

No information found.

Mobility

Driving

No information found.

Falling or history of falling

No information found.

Getting up after falling

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties with everyday tasks such as housekeeping, meal preparation, personal grooming, and nighttime routines. They are finding it challenging to stay on top of these tasks and have noticed changes in their ability to manage daily activities independently. While they are hesitant to ask for help and value their independence, they acknowledge the need for some support in managing tasks that have become overwhelming.

Moving around in the community

The person mentioned in the text is facing challenges related to moving around their own house and managing everyday tasks. The tasks that were once easily handled are now becoming more difficult, such as keeping the house clean and in order, staying on top of laundry, maintaining the garden, and preparing meals. Additionally, activities like bathing, dressing, grooming, and settling in at night are requiring more effort and time. The individual also mentions needing assistance with managing medications and health issues. Despite their independent nature, they are beginning to recognize the need for support to handle tasks that are becoming overwhelming while still trying to maintain their independence.

Moving around inside home

The person mentioned is experiencing challenges with moving around inside their home. They find it increasingly difficult to handle everyday tasks, such as moving from room to room, managing laundry, and keeping the house safe and in order. Simple activities like cooking, planning meals, and personal grooming have become more taxing. They also struggle with getting comfortable at night and may require assistance with managing medications and health issues. Despite being independent, the individual acknowledges the need for support in tackling tasks that are becoming overwhelming.

Moving Around Outside home

The person mentioned is experiencing difficulty with daily tasks both inside and outside the house. They are struggling with maintaining household chores, keeping up with cooking and meal preparation, as well as taking care of personal grooming and settling in at night. Additionally, they mention needing help with managing medications and health issues. Despite their independent nature, they have realized the need for support with tasks that are becoming overwhelming.

Transfers, wheelchair to car or bed to chair

The person mentioned is experiencing challenges with everyday tasks around the house, managing self-care routines, and feeling overwhelmed with certain activities. They are finding it difficult to stay on top of things like laundry, home maintenance, cooking, personal grooming, and settling in at night. They also mention needing extra help with tasks such as managing medications and dealing with health issues. Despite their preference for independence, they acknowledge the need for support to manage the tasks that are becoming overwhelming. No information found regarding issues related to transfers, wheelchair to car, or bed to chair.

Two or one assistance for all transfers

No information found.

Using arms, hands, or fingers

No information found.

Using transport as a passenger

No information found.

Wheelchair user

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing challenges in managing everyday tasks around the house, such as keeping up with laundry, gardening, and meal preparation. They are also finding it harder to take care of themselves, including tasks like bathing, dressing, and grooming. Additionally, they mention needing more time to settle in at night and occasionally require extra help with managing medications or dealing with health issues. While they have always been independent, they are now considering seeking support to help with tasks that are becoming overwhelming while still aiming to maintain their independence.

Household Management

Faecal smearing

No information found.

Administering personal finances

No information found.

Garden / lawns

Yes, the person mentioned in the text is experiencing challenges related to keeping the garden or yard in decent shape. They used to enjoy this task but now find it starting to feel like too much.

Home safety

The person mentioned in the text is starting to struggle with various daily tasks around the house and with personal care. They are finding it increasingly challenging to manage chores such as laundry, gardening, cooking, and self-care activities like grooming and getting ready in the morning. They are also experiencing difficulties in settling in at night and sometimes need help with medications and health issues. While they value their independence, they are recognizing the need for some support to manage tasks that are becoming overwhelming. No information found related to home safety.

Laundry

Yes, the person mentioned in the text is struggling with staying on top of their laundry tasks. They used to be able to manage everything, including keeping the house clean and in order, but lately, they have noticed it's harder to stay on track with their laundry and other household chores. They mention that little things like keeping the laundry safe and sorted have become challenging for them, indicating that laundry is one of the tasks they are finding difficult to keep up with. It seems that the person could benefit from some additional support with tasks like laundry to help alleviate the feelings of being overwhelmed.

Operating home heating appliances

No information found.

Meal preparation

Yes, the person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties with meal preparation. They used to enjoy cooking but are finding it challenging due to tasks like planning, shopping, and having the energy to put it all together. They mention that sometimes they lack the energy to pull it all together, leading to things piling up in this area.

Shopping for necessary items

The person mentioned is experiencing challenges with everyday tasks around the house and personal care. They are finding it harder to stay on top of things like laundry, maintaining the garden, cooking, planning meals, and caring for themselves. Simple tasks such as bathing, dressing, and grooming are requiring more effort, and they are noticing changes in their nightly routine and managing medications. The person values their independence but acknowledges the need for support to handle tasks that have become overwhelming. No information found regarding Shopping for necessary items.

Other housework

The person mentioned in the text is struggling with various aspects of daily tasks and personal care. They are finding it challenging to keep up with housework, such as laundry and yard maintenance, as well as meal preparation and personal grooming. Additionally, they are noticing changes in taking care of themselves, such as needing more time to settle in at night and requiring extra help with managing medications and health issues. Despite their usual independence, they are starting to realize the need for support with tasks that are becoming overwhelming.

Self-care

Bathing, showering, Washing self

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties with tasks around the house and personal care. They are finding it challenging to keep up with everyday tasks, such as managing laundry, taking care of the garden, and preparing meals. They have also noticed changes in taking care of themselves, particularly in activities like bathing, dressing, grooming, and settling in at night. This individual is feeling the need for additional support, especially with tasks that have become overwhelming.

Bed mobility

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties with daily tasks such as managing household chores, cooking, personal grooming, settling in at night, and needing extra help with medications and health problems. They have noticed changes in the effort required for tasks that were once routine, indicating potential issues with bed mobility and independent movement within their living space.

Dressing and / or undressing

Yes, the person mentioned is experiencing issues related to dressing and undressing. They have noticed that simple tasks like getting ready in the morning, bathing, dressing, and grooming have started taking more effort and feel like bigger tasks than before. These activities now require more time and energy, and sometimes they struggle to keep up with them.

Eating and drinking

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing challenges with managing various household tasks and personal care activities. They are finding it increasingly difficult to keep up with daily chores such as laundry, gardening, and meal preparation. Additionally, tasks related to personal care, such as bathing, grooming, and managing medications, have become more demanding. The individual acknowledges the need for assistance and support to help them maintain their independence while managing these overwhelming tasks. No information found.

Faecal smearing

No information found.

Grooming and caring for body parts

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing challenges with daily tasks around the house and personal care routines. They have noticed that tasks such as grooming and dressing have become more difficult and require more effort than before. Simple activities like bathing and keeping up with grooming have started to feel like bigger tasks that they need to plan their day around. Additionally, settling in at night and getting comfortable takes more time, leading to restless nights and sometimes needing extra help with personal matters like managing medications or health issues. The individual is finding it harder to maintain their independence and acknowledges the need for some support with the overwhelming tasks they are facing.

Managing / preventing health problems

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing challenges related to managing daily tasks and activities that were once easy for them. They are finding it difficult to keep up with household chores, maintaining the garden, preparing meals, personal grooming, and settling in at night. They have also mentioned needing extra help with managing medications and health problems. While they value their independence, they are realizing the need for support with tasks that are becoming overwhelming.

Managing medication

The person mentioned is experiencing challenges with managing various aspects of daily life, such as household tasks, meal preparation, personal grooming, and settling in at night. They have mentioned needing extra help with managing medications or dealing with health issues. Despite their inclination towards independence, they are realizing the need for support in managing tasks that are becoming overwhelming.

Menstrual management

No information found.

Night Care

Based on the text provided, the person seems to be experiencing challenges with managing everyday tasks and self-care activities. They are finding it increasingly difficult to keep up with household chores, cooking meals, and personal grooming. Additionally, they have noticed changes in their nighttime routine, such as needing more time to settle in and feeling restless at night. The individual also mentions needing extra help with tasks like managing medications and dealing with health problems. While they have always been independent, they are starting to realize that they may require additional support to maintain their independence while managing these increasing challenges.

Night settling

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties related to settling in at night. They have noticed that they need more time to get comfortable at night, waking up needing help or feeling unrested, and experiencing challenges with other personal activities during the night.

Toileting

No information found.

Continence

Faecal continence

No information found.

Urinary continence

No information found.