

Processed AI Transcription

Background, Present Living Situation, Significant Events, and Contingency Plan

A short narrative of the person's background

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties managing everyday tasks around the house and with personal care. They used to be independent and capable of handling everything on their own, but now find it challenging to keep up with household chores, meal preparation, grooming, and self-care. Simple tasks such as laundry, yard work, and cooking feel overwhelming, and they struggle with getting ready in the morning, settling in at night, and managing medications and health issues. Despite their preference for independence, they have come to realize the need for additional support to maintain their quality of life.

Current living situation etc

The person mentioned in the text is starting to realize that they may need more help around the house and with other areas as everyday tasks are becoming more challenging and harder to keep up with. They used to be able to manage on their own but now find it difficult to stay on top of things like cleaning, laundry, maintaining the garden, and cooking. They are also noticing changes in taking care of themselves, such as grooming, dressing, and getting ready in the morning requiring more effort. Additionally, settling in at night and managing medications or health issues have become more demanding tasks. Despite being independent, they are acknowledging the need for some support to keep their independence while managing tasks that are starting to feel overwhelming.

Communication

Ability to express core needs Verbal or Non-Verbal

The person expressed a need for more help around the house and in other areas due to finding everyday tasks more challenging. They mentioned struggling with tasks such as house chores, meal planning and preparation, grooming, settling in at night, and managing medications. The individual acknowledged their increasing difficulty in handling these tasks and admitted needing extra support, despite their usual independence.

Can read/write?

No information found.

Can use a phone?

No information found.

Receptive / Expressive skills?

The person mentioned is experiencing difficulties with various day-to-day tasks around the house, maintaining personal care routines, preparing meals, and managing health-related activities. They are finding it challenging to stay on top of chores such as laundry, house cleaning, yard work, and meal planning, which were manageable for them in the past. They are also noticing increased effort required for personal grooming, settling in at night, and taking care of themselves overall. Despite their preference for independence, they are acknowledging the need for additional support to address these tasks that are becoming overwhelming.

Sensory and Speech difficulties

Blind or nearly blind

No information found.

Deaf or nearly deaf

No information found.

Hearing impaired

No information found.

Speech impaired

No information found.

Vision impaired

No information found.

Mobility

Driving

No information found.

Falling or history of falling

The person mentioned in the text does not have any specific mention of falling or a history of falling.
No information found.

Getting up after falling

The text does not mention any specific issues related to getting up after falling. No information found.

Moving around in the community

The person mentioned in the text is facing challenges related to moving around within their house. They used to manage well on their own but now find it difficult to keep up with everyday tasks, such as cleaning, laundry, and garden maintenance. They also struggle with tasks like cooking, personal grooming, and settling in at night. While they prefer to be independent, they acknowledge the need for support, especially with tasks that have become overwhelming.

Moving around inside home

The person mentioned is facing challenges with moving around inside their home. Tasks such as navigating from one room to another, keeping the house clean and in order, staying on top of laundry, maintaining the garden, and managing day-to-day activities like cooking and personal care have become more difficult for them. They are experiencing increased effort and struggles with simple tasks like bathing, dressing, grooming, settling in at night, and managing medications. While they are typically independent and hesitant to ask for help, they have acknowledged the need for additional support in dealing with these tasks that are beginning to feel overwhelming.

Moving Around Outside home

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing challenges with moving around both inside and outside the home, as well as with other daily tasks.

Transfers, wheelchair to car or bed to chair

It seems the person mentioned is starting to struggle with everyday tasks around the house and with personal care. They are finding it challenging to keep up with housekeeping, meals, grooming, and settling in at night. They also mentioned needing extra help with managing medications and dealing with health issues. While they are used to being independent, they are realizing they may need some support to stay on top of things. No information found regarding issues related to transfers, wheelchair to car, or bed to chair.

Two or one assistance for all transfers

Issues related to assistance for all transfers were not explicitly mentioned in the text provided.

Using arms, hands, or fingers

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties with various tasks around the house and daily activities. These challenges include managing household chores, maintaining the garden and yard, cooking and meal preparation, personal grooming, settling in at night, and managing medications and health problems. The individual is finding these tasks increasingly overwhelming and is realizing the need for additional support to maintain their independence while receiving assistance when necessary. No information found related to issues specifically with using arms, hands, or fingers.

Using transport as a passenger

No information found.

Wheelchair user

No information found.

Household Management

Faecal smearing

No information found.

Administering personal finances

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties with managing daily tasks around the house, taking care of themselves, and handling day-to-day activities such as preparing meals. They are finding it challenging to keep up with chores like laundry, taking care of the garden, and even basic grooming. Additionally, they are struggling with settling in at night and feeling rested, as well as managing medications and dealing with health issues. Although they are usually independent, they are realizing that they may need support with tasks that have become overwhelming.

Garden / lawns

The person mentioned in the text is struggling with various everyday tasks and has noticed that keeping the garden or the yard in decent shape is starting to feel like too much. They used to enjoy taking care of it but now find it overwhelming.

Home safety

The person mentioned in the text is struggling with keeping up with everyday tasks around the house. They mention that it's becoming challenging to manage tasks like laundry, maintaining the garden, and even cooking meals due to lacking energy and feeling overwhelmed. Additionally, personal care activities such as grooming and getting ready in the morning have also become more difficult, requiring more effort. The person has realized the need for support and assistance with these tasks to help maintain their independence while managing the increasing challenges they are facing.

Laundry

Yes, the person mentioned in the text is experiencing challenges with keeping up with laundry. They used to be on top of it but have noticed it's harder to stay on track with laundry and other household tasks due to feeling overwhelmed by everyday responsibilities.

Operating home heating appliances

No information found.

Meal preparation

The individual mentioned in the text appears to be struggling with various everyday tasks around the house as they find it challenging to keep up with small but essential chores. They notice difficulties in managing activities like laundry, maintaining the garden, and preparing meals. Cooking, along with meal planning and grocery shopping, is becoming overwhelming for them, as they feel like they lack the energy to handle all the components effectively. In addition to household tasks, the person is also experiencing increased effort in personal grooming, settling in at night, and managing medications and health problems. Despite their preference for independence, they acknowledge the need for some support to manage tasks that are becoming too much to handle alone. No information found regarding specific issues related to meal preparation.

Shopping for necessary items

Yes, the person mentioned is experiencing challenges related to shopping for necessary items. They are finding it increasingly harder to keep up with everyday tasks, including making meals, planning, shopping for groceries, and ensuring they have everything they need. These tasks have become overwhelming, and the individual is feeling frustrated and lacking energy to manage it all effectively.

Other housework

The person mentioned is experiencing challenges related to managing everyday tasks around the house and beyond. It is becoming increasingly difficult to keep up with housework, such as laundry and maintaining the garden. Additionally, tasks like meal preparation, personal care routines, and settling in at night are requiring more effort and time. The individual is recognizing the need for additional support in managing these overwhelming tasks and is considering seeking help to maintain their independence while receiving necessary backup when needed.

Self-care

Bathing, showering, Washing self

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing challenges related to bathing, dressing, and grooming. They are finding these tasks to require more effort and time than before, indicating potential difficulties in self-care activities.

Bed mobility

The person described in the text is experiencing challenges with various daily tasks around the house, personal care, and managing health needs. They are struggling with keeping up with tasks like laundry, gardening, cooking, grooming, and settling in at night. This individual is finding it harder to manage these activities independently and is beginning to realize the need for additional support to maintain their independence. No direct mention of issues related to bed mobility was found in the text.

Dressing and / or undressing

Yes, based on the text, the person mentioned is experiencing difficulties with dressing and grooming tasks. These activities have started to require more effort and are becoming bigger tasks that need to be planned out.

Eating and drinking

No information found.

Faecal smearing

No information found.

Grooming and caring for body parts

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing challenges with daily tasks around the house, such as managing laundry, keeping the house clean and in order, maintaining the garden and yard, and preparing meals. They are finding it increasingly difficult to stay on top of these tasks, which used to be manageable. Additionally, they are facing difficulties with self-care activities like bathing, dressing, grooming, and settling in at night. These tasks now require more effort and time than before, indicating a possible need for external support. Overall, the individual is struggling with maintaining their independence while recognizing the growing need for assistance.

Managing / preventing health problems

The person mentioned in the text seems to be experiencing difficulties in managing daily tasks and maintaining their health. They are struggling with tasks such as housekeeping, cooking, personal grooming, settling in at night, and keeping up with medications. These challenges are starting to feel overwhelming, and the person is seeking support to help maintain their independence while getting the assistance they need.

Managing medication

The person mentioned in the text is facing challenges with managing various aspects of daily life, including household tasks, meal preparation, personal grooming, and settling in at night. They have started to find these tasks more difficult to handle and are acknowledging the need for additional support. While the text does not specifically mention issues related to managing medication, the individual does express challenges with managing health problems and the need for extra help in various aspects of their daily routine. It seems like overall support is needed in managing multiple areas of life.

Menstrual management

No information found.

Night Care

The person mentioned seems to be experiencing difficulties in managing everyday tasks around the house and with personal care. They have noticed challenges in tasks such as moving around the house, keeping up with laundry and house maintenance, meal preparation, and self-care activities like grooming and getting ready in the morning. Additionally, they have mentioned struggling with settling in at night and feeling the need for extra help with tasks like managing medications and dealing with health issues. The individual acknowledges their need for support and is looking for ways to maintain their independence while receiving assistance when necessary.

Night settling

Yes, the person mentioned in the text is experiencing issues related to night settling. They have noticed that they need more time to get comfortable at night, sometimes waking up needing help or feeling unrested. They also mention that other personal tasks are harder at night, indicating that settling in for the night is a challenge for them.

Toileting

The person mentioned in the text does not specifically mention any issues related to toileting. No information found.

Continence

Faecal continence

No information found.

Urinary continence

No information found.