

Processed AI Transcription

Background, Present Living Situation, Significant Events, and Contingency Plan

A short narrative of the person's background

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties in maintaining their daily tasks such as household chores, meal preparation, personal care, managing health issues, and staying on top of finances. They have noticed a gradual decline in their ability to manage these responsibilities independently and are feeling overwhelmed by the increasing demands. This individual, who has always been independent and takes pride in it, is now considering seeking support to help with day-to-day tasks and managing their health. They acknowledge the need for assistance and are open to receiving help to ensure things run more smoothly in their daily life.

Current living situation etc

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties in managing their daily routine, maintaining their home, staying on top of meal preparation, taking care of personal grooming, managing health problems, ensuring proper rest at night, and keeping track of finances. They are finding tasks that used to be easy to be more overwhelming, leading to feelings of losing control over their routine. The individual acknowledges the need for additional support with day-to-day tasks to help them maintain their independence while also staying on top of essential responsibilities.

Communication

Ability to express core needs Verbal or Non-Verbal

The person mentioned is experiencing difficulties in managing daily tasks such as shopping, meal preparation, housework, personal care, health management, and financial responsibilities. They are struggling to keep up with their routine, feel overwhelmed by the increasing tasks, and are finding it challenging to maintain their independence. Despite wanting to continue doing tasks on their own, they have recognized the need for support to ensure things run smoothly. They are open to receiving help with day-to-day activities to alleviate the growing challenges they are facing.

Can read/write?

The person described seems to be experiencing difficulties with various daily tasks, such as shopping, meal preparation, housework, managing health problems, personal care, sleep, and finances. They have noticed a gradual decline in their ability to stay on top of these responsibilities and are finding it increasingly challenging to maintain their independence. While they express a desire to continue doing as much as they can on their own, they acknowledge the need for support with day-to-day tasks to help them manage their life more effectively.

Can use a phone?

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties in managing daily tasks related to household chores, meal preparation, personal care, health management, sleep patterns, and financial responsibilities. They are finding it challenging to maintain their routine and keep up with various aspects of their life due to feelings of fatigue, forgetfulness, decreased energy levels, and mobility issues. While they express a desire to remain independent, they acknowledge the need for additional support in handling day-to-day activities to ensure things run smoothly.

Receptive / Expressive skills?

Expressive skills: The person is able to express their thoughts, concerns, and needs clearly and comprehensively through the text provided. Receptive skills: The person seems to be experiencing challenges related to receptive skills, as indicated by their struggles with remembering tasks, feeling overwhelmed by day-to-day activities, losing track of important details, and feeling tired or lacking energy to follow through on necessary actions. They also mention having difficulty managing their health problems, staying on top of their medications and changes in their condition, and feeling like they are losing control over their routine. These issues suggest a potential decline in receptive skills, affecting the individual's ability to effectively process and respond to various stimuli and information in their daily life.

Sensory and Speech difficulties

Blind or nearly blind

No information found.

Deaf or nearly deaf

No information found.

Hearing impaired

No information found.

Speech impaired

No information found.

Vision impaired

No information found.

Mobility

Driving

No information found.

Falling or history of falling

The person mentioned in the text has difficulties with managing daily tasks and routines as they used to. They are struggling with various aspects, such as shopping, meal preparation, housework, managing health problems, personal care, sleep disturbances, and financial management. They have mentioned feeling overwhelmed by the increasing challenges and are considering the need for additional support to maintain their independence while navigating these difficulties. No information found related to Falling or a history of falling.

Getting up after falling

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties related to managing daily tasks and self-care activities. They are struggling with maintaining routines, housework, meal preparation, personal grooming, managing health problems, settling down at night, and keeping track of finances. They have noticed a decrease in their ability to handle these tasks independently and are considering seeking support to address these challenges.

Moving around in the community

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties with tasks related to daily living and self-care. This includes struggles with mobility, such as getting in and out of bed, as well as the need for more time and effort to handle activities like bathing, dressing, and grooming. They also mention challenges with settling down for the night, experiencing difficulty getting comfortable, waking up multiple times during the night, and needing to get up for the bathroom, which disrupts their sleep. While there may not be specific details related to moving around the community, it's evident that the individual is facing mobility and self-care issues that impact their daily routine and overall well-being.

Moving around inside home

The person mentioned is experiencing difficulties with mobility issues inside their home. They struggle with tasks such as getting in and out of bed, getting dressed, and grooming due to mobility problems, which have started to take more time and effort than before. Additionally, they mention needing more time to settle down and get comfortable at night, often adjusting positions in bed and experiencing difficulties in getting a good night's sleep. These challenges with mobility affect their daily routines and impact their ability to move around and take care of themselves inside their home.

Moving Around Outside home

The person mentioned is experiencing difficulties with mobility and energy related to moving around outside the home. They struggle with tasks like shopping, meal preparation, and maintaining their home. This includes challenges with personal care and managing their health. They express a need for support with day-to-day tasks to help them continue living independently.

Transfers, wheelchair to car or bed to chair

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties with various daily tasks, including shopping, meal preparation, housekeeping, managing health problems and medications, personal care activities like bathing and dressing, getting comfortable for sleep at night, and managing finances. They have noticed a decline in their ability to handle these tasks independently and feel overwhelmed by the increasing effort required. The individual recognizes the need for additional support to maintain their daily routine effectively.

Two or one assistance for all transfers

The person mentioned is experiencing difficulties in managing their daily tasks and maintaining their well-being. They are finding tasks like shopping, meal preparation, housework, managing health problems, personal care, settling down at night, and managing finances to be increasingly challenging. They acknowledge that they have reached a point where they need more support to keep things running smoothly. They express a desire for assistance with day-to-day tasks like meals, shopping, health management, and more, understanding the importance of receiving help despite finding it hard to admit.

Using arms, hands, or fingers

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties with various day-to-day tasks, such as managing their daily routine, household chores, meal preparation, health management, personal care, sleep disturbances, and financial organization. They express struggles with maintaining their independence and pride in handling these tasks on their own, but acknowledge that they may need support to ensure everything runs smoothly. While there is no specific mention of issues related to using arms, hands, or fingers, the individual is seeking assistance with tasks that are becoming increasingly challenging for them.

Using transport as a passenger

No information found.

Wheelchair user

The person mentioned in the text seems to be experiencing difficulties with managing various aspects of their daily life. They have noticed changes in their ability to keep up with tasks like shopping, meal preparation, housework, managing their health, personal care routines, sleep patterns, and finances. The individual acknowledges that they are struggling to maintain their independence and would benefit from some support with day-to-day tasks to help things run more smoothly. They express a desire to continue being involved in activities but recognize the need for assistance.

Household Management

Faecal smearing

No information found.

Administering personal finances

The person mentioned in the text is facing challenges in managing daily tasks, including shopping, meal preparation, housework, personal care, health management, and bedtime routines. There is mention of struggles with mobility, energy levels, and staying on top of routines. While they still want to handle tasks independently, they are recognizing the need for some assistance with day-to-day activities to help maintain a sense of control and routine in their life. No information found.

Garden / lawns

No information found.

Home safety

The person mentioned is experiencing difficulties in managing their daily tasks and routines due to feeling overwhelmed with responsibilities. They struggle with tasks such as shopping, meal preparation, housework, managing health problems, personal grooming, sleep patterns, and finances. The individual has noticed a decline in their ability to maintain their home and stay on top of various aspects of their life. Though there is no explicit mention of specific home safety issues, the overall narrative suggests a need for support in managing daily activities and maintaining overall well-being.

Laundry

No information found.

Operating home heating appliances

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulty in managing various household tasks, maintaining personal care routines, staying on top of health issues, and keeping track of finances. There is a mention of struggling with mobility and energy levels, which impacts their ability to carry out daily activities efficiently. However, there is no specific mention of issues related to operating home heating appliances. No information found.

Meal preparation

The person mentioned is experiencing difficulties related to meal preparation. They find it challenging to plan meals, gather ingredients, cook, and clean up after meals. Some days they skip meals or opt for quick but unhealthy options due to lacking the energy for meal preparation.

Shopping for necessary items

The person mentioned is struggling with managing everyday tasks, including shopping for necessary items. They find it increasingly difficult to plan shopping trips, gather all the needed items, and maintain a routine of going out to buy essentials. This additional strain has made it challenging for the person to stay on top of their daily responsibilities and house chores. They express a need for support with tasks such as shopping, meal planning, health management, and overall self-care to help them navigate these challenges.

Other housework

For example, something as simple as shopping has become more challenging, as even planning and going to the store takes more energy. Meal preparation has also become more daunting, affecting the person's ability to plan meals and clean up adequately. Maintaining the cleanliness and organization of the house, as well as handling home appliances and heating, has become overwhelming. Additionally, managing health problems, personal care activities, such as bathing and grooming, and nighttime routines have all become more time-consuming and energy-draining. Keeping track of finances and bill payments has also become more difficult. Overall, the individual is finding it hard to manage various daily tasks that were once easier to handle independently, indicating a need for additional support with these activities.

Self-care

Bathing, showering, Washing self

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties in managing various daily tasks and responsibilities. They are finding it challenging to keep up with activities such as shopping, meal preparation, housekeeping, managing health issues, personal care routines like bathing, grooming, and dressing, as well as maintaining their finances. The individual acknowledges that these tasks have become more overwhelming over time and that they may need additional support to handle them effectively. They express a desire to remain independent but recognize the need for assistance with day-to-day activities to maintain a sense of normalcy and well-being.

Bed mobility

The person mentioned is experiencing challenges with various daily tasks, such as shopping, meal preparation, housework, managing health problems, and personal care. They have mentioned struggling with mobility, needing more time and effort to get in and out of bed, which in turn affects their morning routine and overall comfort at night. These difficulties with mobility impact their ability to settle down in bed, get a good night's sleep, and handle nighttime bathroom visits. Additionally, they are starting to seek help with day-to-day tasks to manage their routine more effectively.

Dressing and / or undressing

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties related to dressing and grooming. They struggle with mobility, which makes getting in and out of bed or getting ready in the morning more challenging. The individual also finds it takes more time and effort to take care of themselves in terms of bathing, dressing, and grooming. Additionally, they mention feeling low energy and delaying getting ready for the day at times. Nighttime routines also present challenges, with needing more time to settle down and getting comfortable, as well as waking up multiple times during the night and having difficulty getting back to sleep.

Eating and drinking

The person mentioned in the text is struggling with managing daily tasks, household chores, health problems, personal care, sleep disturbances, mobility issues, and financial responsibilities. They are finding it challenging to keep up with meal preparation, grocery shopping, housework, medication management, personal hygiene, sleep routines, and financial organization. The individual acknowledges that they may need support with these tasks to maintain their independence.

Faecal smearing

No information found.

Grooming and caring for body parts

The person mentioned is experiencing challenges with daily tasks, such as managing shopping, meal preparation, housework, managing health problems, and maintaining personal grooming. They are finding it increasingly difficult to stay on top of these tasks due to feeling overwhelmed and lacking energy. There are struggles with mobility, taking longer to get ready, and needing more time to settle down at night. The individual acknowledges the need for support to manage these daily activities effectively.

Managing / preventing health problems

The person mentioned is experiencing difficulties in managing their daily routine, household tasks, meal preparation, housework, personal care, and finances. They are particularly struggling with managing their health problems, such as taking medications and staying on top of their health condition. They acknowledge the importance of staying on track with these tasks but find themselves feeling tired and overwhelmed at times. Additionally, they have noticed changes in their ability to care for themselves, with tasks like bathing, dressing, and grooming requiring more effort than before. In terms of sleep, they are having trouble getting comfortable at night and frequently waking up, affecting the quality of their rest. The individual is also concerned about their ability to handle their finances effectively, recognizing a need for support to prevent potential issues. Overall, they are realizing that the tasks they used to handle independently have become more challenging, and they are considering seeking assistance to keep things running smoothly.

Managing medication

The person mentioned in the text is facing challenges related to managing various aspects of daily life, such as household chores, meal preparation, personal grooming, health maintenance, bedtime routines, and financial responsibilities. They are finding it increasingly difficult to keep up with these tasks independently and are considering the need for assistance to maintain a smoother routine.

No information found related to managing medication specifically.

Menstrual management

No information found.

Night Care

At night, it's a similar story. I've noticed I need more time to settle down and get comfortable for the evening. Sometimes it feels like I'm constantly adjusting, whether it's finding the right position in bed or just trying to relax enough to get a good night's sleep. I wake up a few times during the night, and sometimes it's hard to get back to sleep. And there's the whole aspect of needing to get up for the bathroom in the middle of the night—that's become more frequent, and each time it happens, it takes a while to get settled again.

Night settling

Yes, the person mentioned in the text is experiencing issues related to night settling. They have noticed that they need more time to get comfortable in the evening, struggle to find the right position in bed, sometimes have difficulty relaxing enough to sleep well, wake up multiple times during the night, and face challenges with getting back to sleep after waking for the bathroom.

Toileting

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties with various daily tasks such as shopping, meal preparation, housework, managing health problems, personal care, settling down at night, and managing finances. They are finding it challenging to maintain their usual level of independence and keep up with these tasks. The individual expresses a need for additional support in managing these daily activities to ensure things run more smoothly.

Continence

Faecal continence

No information found.

Urinary continence

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties in managing daily tasks such as shopping, meal preparation, housework, personal care activities, and handling health concerns. They are struggling with maintaining their routine and keeping up with various responsibilities, indicating a decline in physical and cognitive abilities. Additionally, the individual mentions challenges related to mobility, energy levels, and sleep disturbances, along with concerns about managing finances effectively. While they express a desire to remain independent, they also acknowledge the need for support in handling day-to-day activities and maintaining overall well-being.

Behaviour

Harm to others, Mood and emotion (anxiety, depression, unstable mood. etc)

The person in the text is facing challenges in managing daily tasks and responsibilities, such as shopping, meal preparation, housework, and personal care. They are also struggling with managing their health, maintaining their routine, getting enough rest at night, and keeping track of their finances. This has led them to consider seeking additional support to help them with these everyday activities.

Motivation

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties with motivation. They have noticed a gradual change over time where tasks that used to be easy for them have become overwhelming. This includes struggles with tasks such as shopping, meal preparation, housework, managing health problems, personal care routines, settling down at night, and managing finances. They express a desire to maintain their independence but acknowledge the need for support in managing these day-to-day tasks.

Property damage

No information found.

Repetitive

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing challenges in performing daily tasks such as shopping, meal preparation, housework, managing health problems, personal care, sleep disturbances, and financial management. They have noticed a gradual decline in their ability to handle these tasks independently and efficiently. Tasks that used to be manageable have become more overwhelming and require more energy and effort than before. The individual seeks support in managing these day-to-day activities to maintain their independence while recognizing the need for assistance.

Routine

Yes, the person mentioned is experiencing difficulties related to their routine. They have been struggling to keep up with daily tasks like shopping, meal preparation, housework, personal care, and managing their health and finances. They have noticed a gradual change over time, finding it challenging to maintain their previous level of independence and efficiency in managing these routine activities.

Self-harming

No information found.

Sleep and night behaviour (insomnia, excessive sleep, etc)

Yes, the person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties with their sleep and night behavior. They have mentioned needing more time to settle down and get comfortable at night, struggling to find the right position in bed, waking up multiple times during the night, finding it hard to get back to sleep after waking up, experiencing increased frequency of bathroom visits at night, and having trouble getting settled again after getting up.

Socially inappropriate,

The individual mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties with managing daily tasks, household chores, personal care, health management, and financial responsibilities. They are finding it increasingly challenging to keep up with their routines, such as meal preparation, housekeeping, and self-care activities. Additionally, they are struggling with staying on top of their health conditions, including medication management, as well as maintaining their home and financial matters. The person acknowledges the need for additional support to help with these day-to-day tasks to ensure things run smoothly.

Unsafe wandering

The person mentioned in the text exhibits signs of struggling with everyday tasks and responsibilities. They find it challenging to maintain their daily routine, keep their home in order, prepare meals, manage their health, take care of personal hygiene, and handle financial matters. They express a sense of losing control over their routine and acknowledge the need for support in managing these tasks. The individual is not seeking to relinquish control but recognizes that assistance with day-to-day activities such as meals, shopping, health management, and housekeeping would greatly benefit them.

Withdrawn

The person mentioned is experiencing difficulties in managing daily tasks and routines, household chores, meal preparation, health management, personal care, sleep patterns, and financial responsibilities. They are finding it increasingly challenging to stay on top of these responsibilities and are feeling overwhelmed by the growing demands. The individual recognizes the need for more support to maintain their independence and keep things running smoothly. They are open to receiving assistance with day-to-day tasks to alleviate the mounting pressure they are facing.

Memory / Cognition

Attention

The person mentioned in the text appears to be experiencing difficulties related to attention. They have noticed a decline in their ability to manage daily tasks such as shopping, meal preparation, housework, health management, self-care, bedtime routines, and financial organization. These challenges include forgetting things, feeling overwhelmed by the effort required for tasks, struggling with focus and organization, and feeling a loss of control over their routine. They express a need for support in staying on top of these tasks to maintain their independence.

Intellectual ability

It appears that the person mentioned is experiencing difficulties in managing daily tasks, household chores, personal care, health management, bedtime routine adjustments, and financial organization. These challenges include forgetting things, feeling overwhelmed, struggling with energy levels, delaying tasks, experiencing mobility issues, and having trouble with sleep and financial management. The individual expresses a need for support with day-to-day activities to maintain their independence and well-being. No information found.

Memory

The person described in the text is experiencing difficulties in managing their daily tasks and routines. They are finding it challenging to keep up with household chores, meal preparation, personal grooming, taking care of their health, and managing finances. The individual has noticed a decline in their ability to handle these responsibilities independently and is feeling overwhelmed by the increasing demands. They are considering the need for support in tasks like shopping, meal planning, health management, and maintaining a daily routine to help them navigate these challenges more effectively.

Orientation

Issues related to Orientation: The person has been experiencing difficulties in managing daily tasks and routines due to feeling overwhelmed and fatigued. They are struggling with tasks such as shopping, meal preparation, housework, managing health problems, personal care, sleep disturbances, and financial organization. The individual acknowledges the need for support in maintaining their independence and keeping things running smoothly. They express a willingness to do as much as they can but recognize the importance of having assistance with day-to-day tasks.

Learning ability / Problem solving

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties in various aspects of daily living, such as managing tasks, maintaining the household, preparing meals, taking care of personal hygiene, managing health issues, getting proper sleep, and handling finances. They have noticed a decline in their ability to stay on top of responsibilities, maintain routines, and manage everyday activities independently. Despite their desire to remain independent, they recognize the need for additional support to effectively handle these challenges. The individual is seeking assistance with day-to-day tasks, such as meal preparation, shopping, and health maintenance, to help navigate the increasing obstacles they are facing.

Supervision

Daily prompts

The individual mentioned in the text is experiencing challenges in managing daily tasks. They find activities such as shopping, meal preparation, housework, health management, personal care, sleeping, and finances more overwhelming than before. They are struggling with maintaining their routines, handling tasks around the house, managing their health problems, performing personal care activities, getting adequate sleep, and keeping track of their finances. The person acknowledges the need for support to help with day-to-day tasks to ease the burden of these challenges.

Needs 24-hour supervision

Yes, based on the text provided, the person mentioned has issues related to needing 24-hour supervision due to difficulties in managing daily tasks, maintaining their health, personal care, and financial responsibilities.

Some, for safety

It seems that the person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties related to their physical and mental well-being, as well as in managing daily tasks and responsibilities. The individual is facing challenges in tasks such as going shopping, meal preparation, maintaining their home, managing their health problems, personal care like bathing and grooming, settling down for the night, and keeping track of finances. They are feeling overwhelmed and struggling to keep up with these tasks as they used to, and have recognized the need for support to maintain their independence while managing these challenges effectively. No information found regarding safety concerns related to Some.

Recreational and Social

Community participation

The person mentioned is experiencing difficulties in managing daily tasks such as meal preparation, housework, personal care, health management, and financial matters due to feeling overwhelmed and lacking the energy and capacity to keep up with everything. They acknowledge the need for support with various aspects of their routine to ensure things run smoothly and are considering seeking help for tasks like meals, shopping, health management, and general upkeep. They emphasize the importance of maintaining some independence but recognize the value of assistance in managing the increasing challenges they are facing.

Educational support

No information found.

Specialist Teachers

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties in managing various tasks and responsibilities, such as shopping, meal preparation, housework, personal care, sleep, and finances. They have noticed a decline in their ability to stay on top of these daily activities and are feeling overwhelmed by the increasing demands. The individual acknowledges that they may need support to help with these tasks, as they are finding it challenging to handle everything on their own like they used to.

Family life

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties in managing various aspects of their daily life, such as household tasks, meal preparation, personal care, health management, sleep patterns, and financial responsibilities. These challenges are impacting their routine and well-being, leading them to consider seeking help and support to maintain a sense of independence while addressing the increasing difficulties they are facing.

Socialization

The person mentioned in the text is experiencing difficulties in managing their daily tasks and routines. They are finding it challenging to keep up with activities such as shopping, meal preparation, housework, personal care, managing health problems, bedtime routines, and finances. The individual recognizes that they are struggling to maintain their independence and may need additional support to handle these responsibilities effectively. They express a willingness to receive assistance with tasks like meals, shopping, health management, and general upkeep to help alleviate the growing burden.

Vocational support

The person mentioned is facing challenges related to managing daily tasks, such as shopping, meal preparation, housework, personal care, health management, and finances. These tasks have become more overwhelming and energy-consuming, leading to difficulties in staying on top of responsibilities. They have noticed a decline in their ability to handle these tasks independently and are considering the need for additional support to maintain their routine effectively.